No compromise!

reclaim the land!

Sunday 4th July. 100 police, security guards and Tarmac workers faced 500 activists. Several people broke the Department of Transport's injunction, which had been gained two days before in the High Court at a cost of several hundred thousand pounds. Along with 500 other demonstrators the injunction entered the site. Earlier they had formed a human chain around the site perimeter for a minute's silence as a Requiem for the Lost Landscape.

Those who broke the injunction may now face prison sentences and some may choose to go on a hunger strike. Others may go on non-custodial hunger strikes in support. All this will need support.

The Department of Roads said during the High Court hearing that it will be pursuing a claim for £1.9 million in damages. The injunctions may be held "jointly and severally liable" - ie one of the injunctions may be held liable for the actions of others they may never even have met. This is a peculiar judicial system we are operating under....

OXLEAS WOOD SAVED!

The government has dropped its £300 million plans to drive a road through Oxleas Wood in south-east London. THIS IS A MASSIVE VICTORY FOR THE ENVIRONMENT MOVEMENT IN THIS COUNTRY! The Department of Roads announced that "the scheme was designed many years ago, and no longer meets our strict environmental criteria"([!!]). The decision was obviously nothing to do with the year's direct action at Twyford Down, the formation of the Oxleas Alliance (see EF! AU no 4), or the fact that 3,000 people had signed a pledge to "Beat the Bulldozers".

The bad news is that the DoT proposes to introduce a new scheme, which may be privately financed. One possibility is a deep-bored tunnel linking the Thames and the A2. A competition may be held to design a bridge across the Thames. The scheme will be starting from scratch but the DoT still envisages that the road will be operational by the year 2001.

The Oxleas Alliance still plans to hold a mass rally at Oxleas Wood on Sunday 31st July to re-launch the "Beat the Bulldozer" pledge, and to celebrate this victory. Another important focus of the day will be to show our determination to fight any alternative road schemes the DoT may come up with. Campaigns against other road schemes around the country will also be discussed so BE THERE!

STOLEN PROPERTY

10th July Environmental activists removed mahogany furniture from Bonds store, a branch of the John Lewis Partnership in Norwich, took the furniture to the police station and handed it to the police, reporting it as stolen property. Despite written evidence of illegal extraction of mahogany from indigenous people's lands in Brazil, the women were arrested, strip searched and detained for 6 hours, before they were released without charge. The three activists immediately returned to the police station. This time the new inspector on duty agreed to look into their claim on the basis that handling goods taken illegally from another country is considered a crime under English law.

A VISIT TO THE PALACE

On 6th July, 17 women climbed over the wall of Buckingham Palace garden in order to raise the issue of Britain's nuclear testing on the Shoshone people's lands in America. As British citizens we are all responsible for the actions of the government – silence equals complicity. The media reported it as a test of Buckingham Palace's security.

Paper Monkey-Wrenching

The Malaysian Timber Industry was recently successfully taken to the Advertising Standards Authority. Their claim that the Malaysian Forests are "One of the Best Conserved in the World" is clearly nonsense, and the advert has now been withdrawn.

On Friday, FineWood marketing, based in Brighton, have a 70,000ha concession in Sarawak, and are a significant importer of Malaysian timber to Britain.

ALICE IN TARMACLAND

Tarmac AGM 16th July

This year Tarmac's AGM was considerably more interesting than usual. The meeting was attended by shareholders with a conscience, who raised embarrassing questions relating to Tarmac's environmental policy, particularly relating to the hideous mess they have made of Twyford Down. At one stage, however, the Chair decreed that questions could only be asked after the vote. "Sentence first verdict afterwards". Dreadlocks were banned from the meeting. Nevertheless many points were raised to prick consciences. Sir Eric Poulant, Chairman (sic) of Tarmac, stated that "we all respect the environment, we have to live in it!" This year's AGM lasted well over an hour, seriously interrupting the rich and powerful ones drinking time. Security for the meeting was carried out by Group 4. Further details of Group 4's involvement at Twyford Down can be obtained on Freephone 0800 440 000.

BANK ACTION

9th July, Notts EF co-ordinated another bank action in Nottingham city centre. Lots of people in suits wandered around inside Barclays and Lloyds banks, decorating the place with banners, entertaining customers and staff with drumming and singing, and with loud pop music on a ghetto blaster. The message was successfully delivered to hundreds of bank users that it was much quieter at the Co-op Bank. The bank managers were agitated, upset and distressed. Questions were asked to head office and answers received before the protesters left for a cup of tea.

For information on the debt crisis contact Lloyds and Midland Boycott, c/o Manchester University Students Union, Oxford Road, Manchester, M13 9PQ tel: 061 275 2950.

Whalley Quarry

12th July 1983

Another action protest at proposals to enlarge Whalley Quarry to eat even further into the Mendips (see EFAL No 4). Whalley Quarry is owned by Lord Hanson of multina- tional conglomerate HANSON TRUST. Environment Secretary John Gummer is expected to announce within weeks whether the extension to Whalley Quarry can go ahead. Quarrying in the South West is set to increase by 40% by 2011. Further information and details of future actions from South Somerset EF! 0935 33493.

SWORDS INTO PLOUGHSHARES

On 6th January Chris Cole walked into the British Aerospace factory in Stevenage and allegedly caused £500,000 of damage to military aircraft nosecons and other aircraft. He was released from Bedford Prison on strict bail conditions on 22nd June (he has to obey a 9pm - 7am curfew, attend his local police station 5 days a week and not go onto any BAE property). His trial is set for 4th October at Luton Crown Court. Further information from BAE Ploughshares, c/o NVRN 162 Holloway Road, London N7, 0865 201687.

NVDA Skills Weekend

Let's get our shit together. 20th - 22nd August, Oxford Feedback from Timbmet has suggested that it would be a good idea if the movement had preparation in group decision-making, facilitation etc. So here it is! 20th-22nd August: a weekend of nonviolence preparation and groupwork for radical environmental groups. Sessions will include: approaches to non-violence, affinity groups, role-playing, games, consensus, facilitation, sharing of experiences. First we will go through the preparation for an 'imaginary' action, then reflect on what we've learned and take some elements further. We will try to include anything requested when booking. It would be great if people from each group could come. This is important!

We need to get organised!

Money will be available towards travel costs, and accommodation and food provided. Please commit yourself to attending the whole weekend: 8pm Friday to 5pm Sunday. Details and booking from Oxford EF!

Mahogany Action Week

On Saturday 14th June, as part of the Mahogany Action Week, Manchester EF! re-visited Texas DIY. The continual lack of response to a set of highly reasonable demands concerning the cessation of the destruction of irreplaceable eco-systems and communities, lead to a slightly more insane action. A stencil bearing the slogan "DEAD RAINFOREST" was made and the message liberally painted over mahogany in the store. The police arrived with six vans and three cars! The artist was arrested along with another protester (for glueing a factually correct information leaflet to a mahogany table).

All charges were dropped. Other activities included leafletting, talking to customers, trolley runs, moving timber around the store and re-labeling bar codes. Protesters were eventually ejected and were able to continue the protest outside.

The cost to Texas DIY was 'thousands of pounds' according to their own staff. Manchester EF! have subsequently been contacted by Texas head office and asked not to do it again.

Norfolk Friends of the Earth organised a vigil and fast outside Bonds Department Store in Norwich. They are demanding that the parent company, John Lewis Partnership, suspend the purchase of Brazilian Mahogany immediately. The vigil started with a 11 day fast by Mark Simon which ended on June 12th. Since then the fast and vigil has been continued in relief. If you would like to help please contact Norfolk FoE on 0603 625 394.

Meanwhile in Brazil the Parakana Indians who live in the Apayterewa reserve took justice into their own hands and destroyed all logging equipment and installations left inside the reserve. In the Xicrin reserve the loggers attempted to invade Indian lands but were stopped by FUNAI and the Federal Police.

Things are hotting up. The pressure must be kept up on the timber industry to stop this murderous trade. Further information on the mahogany campaign on 0865 201706.
FASLANE PEACE CAMP

Monday 20th September

PROTEST. The aim is to blockade base traffic and delay work at the depot. Weekend workshops and training will take place. Food and child minding will be catered for.

JESMOND DENE
FLOWERPOT TRIBE

12th July 1993. A day of action in defiance of Newcastle City Council's injunction stopping "people unknown" from trespassing on the construction site resulted in 14 arrests. The road is £12 million worth of folly and would destroy around 170 trees. Only preliminary works have started so far. Tree houses have already been constructed in several trees and activists are already living in some of the trees. The presence of the Flowerpot Tribe camp successfully deterred the council from moving in with chainsaws, but a 24 hour eviction notice was served on 16th July. More tree sitters are urgently needed now! Contact Newcastle EFi 091 278 2493. For latest details.

Wensum and Wynham Valleys

The Wensum Valley near Norwich is threatened by a link to the Norwich Northern Relief Road, one of three (!!!) ring roads planned by Norfolk County Council. The Save Wensum Valley campaign is holding a festival called 'Music on the Line' with bands, stalls, festivities and a chance to see the Wensum Valley itself. It takes place at Anderson's Meadows from 11am till 7pm on Sunday 1st August.

An action camp is planned to be set up in the Autumn to save the Wensum Valley from the proposed A11 widening. For details contact N.E.N. on 0603 765 434.

ROADS NEWS

Birmingham Northern Relief Road
This controversial road scheme is presently under consultation prior to a public enquiry (expected later this year). This would become the first stretch of motorway in the country to be built and financed by the private sector.

M25 widenings As well as huge roadworks indicating that work is already well underway on some stretches...consultation recently closed on the first stage of the planned widening of the M25 to 14 lanes. The DoT received 10,000 letters of objection and 8 letters of support.

Salisbury bypass The public enquiry into the planned Salisbury bypass is dragging on to vast numbers of objections, to the evident disappointment of the DoT, who had hoped it would be over by now!

Tin Hat bypass Oxford £40 million more that the DoT wants to waste on roads that are neither needed nor wanted. Douglas Hurd has written to the Roads Minister pointing out that 'the financial and environmental objections are very strong'.

DEVON ROADS MADNESS

In the West Country, a road project is looming which threatens to damage local communities and devastate the environment (destroying an ancient woodland, an area of species-rich wetland, and habitats for wildlife, including badger sets). The A30/303 road 'improvement' is being passed off as a scheme to relieve traffic congestion on an already existing road, reduce air pollution and accidents etc etc. Sound familiar? A coalition of groups is opposing the project, including Somerset FoE, CPRE, South Somerset EFi! and the Trust for Nature Conservation. Opponents of the Marsh-Honiton stretch of the road (Public Enquiry pending this Autumn), are appealing for support and information from groups in the West Country region. If you can help, or want further information, please contact them at: Hanson's Farm, Upottery, Honiton, Devon, EX11 9FF.

SKYE BRIDGE

The campaign is currently under review. It is hoped to build up support in Scotland. Further actions will be happening. Contact Oxford EFi! for further details 0865 201 706.
